Foreword

The Moving Finger writes; and, having writ,
Moves on: nor all thy Piety nor Wit
Shall lure it back to cancel half a Line,
Nor all thy Tears wash out a Word of it.

Omar Khayyam

When we occupied the sophomore and junior homerooms, we enviously watched the successive graduating classes pass with glory from the portals of Fairhaven High School. Now we, the Class of 1948, find ourselves pausing dubiously on the threshold which leads to a world far-removed from this friendly and comfortable haven. We have known, in the fleeting moments of our Senior year, triumphs and defeats, inspiring and discouraging moments, and the envious regard of the underclassmen.

We have, perhaps, been guilty of a latent desire to return once more to the sophomore and junior homerooms, to experience again the inevitable trials and tribulations, and the numerous moments of fun and enjoyable companionship which have accompanied these brief years.

As the fulfillment of this desire is quite impossible, we present the 1948 edition of "The Huttlestonian" as a commemoration of enduring remembrances. It is our sincere wish that it may serve as a constant source of enjoyment and as an aid in preserving the precious memories of the best years of our lives.

Question—What Junior Class Is the Best in the Universe?

Scene: The interplanetary convention held on Saturn. The final competition for the title is between Pluto and Earth. A student from the Junior class of Plutonian Institute has just finished relating the outstanding attributes of the junior class from the leading high school of Pluto. The highlights of the talk described the advancement in algebraic equations of the students and the athletic prowess displayed in track events.

Earth takes the stand: I represent the Junior class of the Fairhaven, Massachusetts, High School U.S.A., planet, Earth. This school has already, by winning tremendous acclaim, proved to be the most outstanding on the planet. I will endeavor, now, to tell you why our Junior class surpasses all others in the whole universe.

In the first place, the Junior girls are the picture of beauty. Beauty, unsurpassable, can be seen gracefully walking in and out of such homerooms as 10, 17, 9, and the Library. The Senior boys seem unable to resist the power that our girls have over them, and as an embarrassing result, the Senior girls are often left to be dated by underclassmen.

Our football team is composed of a great number of Juniors, who help to make it one of the finest in our section. Certainly you people have heard of such football greats as, Sherman Kinney, Charles Dunn, Randall Haydon, David Marra, and Edwin Tonneson. It was a Junior member of the team who was elected an All-Bristol County back. Where would our school team be without these Juniors?

We shall now glance at the scholastic record of the students in the class. The name of one of the group has always been listed on the A honor roll, a very accomplished bit of work. The intelligence of the group is written all over the face of each individual student. Even the slightest conversation with one of these All-Universe students reveals his unusually high mentality. However, we won't regard mental ability just in the form of marks, but also in plain, ordinary good sense and outstanding character. Both have been displayed over and again throughout the years. Scene: The Junior class of the High School of Fairhaven, Massachusetts, United States of America, Earth, triumphantly leaves the convention, each student confiding in the other that he knew all along that Earth would receive the honor of having within her boundaries—"Queen Junior Class."

We, the nifty of nineteen fifty, fun loving and ambitious, look forward eagerly to the day when we will graduate and go out into this world, seeking our fortunes. The times we spent in school striving to receive an education will be remembered by all of us always. We will all try earnestly to secure a suitable position in life, whether it be as doctor, lawyer, or nurse, and do our best to promote and fulfill the tasks of that profession.

We wish the Senior Class of 1948 all the luck and success in the world. When we are seniors, we hope we can set as good an example for the other grades as the members of the class of 1948 have set for us.

Sports

Football

Although the usual F.H.S. spirit and fight prevailed throughout most of the season, our gridsters were able to come through with only 2 wins against seven defeats. With much enthusiasm at the beginning of the season, the inexperienced squad put up some tough battles on their home field. Toward the middle of the season, when the team travelled, the morale dropped rapidly. Previous to the New Bedford game, however, the club snatched its second victory of the season, helping to boost itself for that traditional battle.

Here's hoping the team of the '48 season shows up well in its schedule. Good Luck!! We'll be rooting for you!!

DARTMOUTH

It was Fairhaven all the way against the Green from Dartmouth. Led by Kinney, the team showed much fight. Kinney scored the only tally of the game in the second period.

NEW BEDFORD VOCATIONAL

Again the Fairhaven team put up a good battle, but the luck was against it. "Bebo" Sylvia scored for Fairhaven in the 2nd quarter.

COYLE

With great line play and back field cooperation, our gridsters almost upset an unbeaten Coyle eleven of Taunton. It was a hard fought game, and one which all who saw will remember. The touchdowns were made by Kinney and Dunn.

TAUNTON

Fairhaven opened the season with a green team, against a veteran Taunton eleven at Hopewell Park in Taunton. Sparked by the running and passing of Captain Sherman Kinney, Fairhaven showed much spirit and fight, regardless of defeat. It was a pass from Kinney to Raybold that gave us our only score.

ATTLEBORO

Fairhaven started right out with a 70 yd. drive, only to fumble and lose the ball to Attleboro. The Fairhaven line showed much fight early in the game, but lost heart when so many breaks turned against it. Kinney scored the only Fairhaven touchdown.

NEW BEDFORD

Backed by the running of Ray Gamache, New Bedford proved to be too powerful for the F.H.S. Team. Fairhaven showed much fight, however, as it did throughout the season. "Bebo" Sylvia was acting captain replacing Sherman Kinney, who was missing from the line-up because of a bad ankle.

BARNSTABLE

Although Fairhaven tried its best, it was not the usual fight. Barnstable proved too strong for the weakened Fairhaven team. Again it was the Captain who scored Fairhaven's only touchdown.

FALMOUTH

Coming out in high spirits and determined to win, Fairhaven topped the unbeaten Lawrence High eleven of Falmouth. The touchdown was scored by Kinney.

Basketball

During the first half of the season, Fairhaven High's basketball squad treated the fans to a spectacle of excellent playing. Defeating a highly-rated Braintree team in two contests, and emerging triumphant in the traditional battle with New Bedford High School on our home-court, our team was one of which we were justly proud. However, the mid-way mark of the schedule demonstrated to the rooters how even excellent teams gain the reputation of being "hot and cold". Although at the time this is being written the squad is looking forward to the second half of its heavy schedule, we venture to say the 1947-1948 record will be one that Fairhavenites can point to with considerable pride.

Peter Briggs '48

Cheerleaders

Seven strong, the cheerleaders aroused the spirit of the school and urged the teams on to several victories. The enthusiasm of the pupils of the school this year has surpassed that of previous years. However, this is what the cheerleaders strive for, and hope to increase in the future. The following girls make up the squad: Seniors—Ann Price, Ann Perkins, and Barbara Lawton, head cheerleader; Junior—Maureen Mahoney; Sophomores—Hor Chin, Trudy Litz, and Jo-Ann Walker.

Barbara Lawton '48

Girls' Athletic Association

The Fairhaven G. A. A. has accomplished a great deal more this year than in the past. Under the guidance of Shirley Boucher, President, and Mrs. Sullivan, the faculty advisor, the Association's membership has been doubled and the girls have been more active. During football season, the girls undertook the job of selling candy and other refreshments at the home games.

Members of teams must belong to the G. A. A. in return for the transportation fees paid by the Association. It is the ultimate desire of this organization to be able to join a league in which games will be scheduled and played with many other schools.

Barbara Lawton '48

Girls' Basketball

The basketball team has passed another year undefeated. Vocational's two attempts to topple us were in vain. Once again, Wareham could not gain a single victory of its two games. The great Fairhaven six, whose manager is Lois Karvenen, hope to hold their present position of triumph for years to come.

Barbara Lawton '48

The Honor Society

The Fairhaven High School chapter of the National Honor Society initiates its new members in March. These new members are chosen according to their scholastic standing and service to the school. The new officers are installed in June.

The emblem of the Honor Society is the shield and flaming torch, and its colors are yellow and blue. The four points of the emblem which signify the virtues are leadership, scholarship, character, and service.

The active members of the Class of 1948 are Patricia Litz, Robert Patterson, Patricia Moffett, Ann Pattee, Joseph Kobak, Robert Demoranville, Barbara Lawton, Phyllis Barber, and Irene Cabral.

Officers are Patricia Litz, President; because of scholastic equality the posts of Vice-President and secretary are shared by Barbara Lawton and Patricia Moffett; and Ann Pattee serves as Treasurer.

Patricia Moffett '48

The Student Council

Once a week there is held a meeting of the Student Council, which is comprised of home-room representatives from all classes in the school. A democratic institution, the Council strives to improve the school from the students' viewpoint.

Chief among its many accomplishments is the revisal of the "Code of Ethics," which outlines the conduct expected of a pupil during the several phases of school life. The Council also sponsored a monthly contest which brought credit to the outstanding members of each class. It was called "At the end of the month we take off our hats to —," and saluted one member of each class who performed a deed of notable achievement.

The 1947-1948 Student Council program is conducted by Joseph Kobak, President; Ralph Rigby, Vice President; Alan Simmons and Anne Stowell, Secretary-Treasurers. The faculty advisor is Mr. Earl J. Dias.

The Key Club

The Key Club is a newly organized club at Fairhaven High, and is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of New Bedford. The weekly meetings are held in the library on Wednesday nights, and Mr. Downing presides over the meetings as advisor.

The Key Club is a service club, and through its various functions, promotes activities for the benefit of the school and the student body. As the club is yet comparatively new, with a small membership, it cannot yet claim many accomplishments, but with more activities such as "career day", it hopes to become a leading club at Fairhaven High School. The members also benefit, for through the speakers they hear, the mills they visit, and the contacts they make with men who are in many varied businesses today, they add to their education a certain knowledge of business that is not ordinarily found in the classroom.

To enter the Key Club, a boy must have the required grades, a good character, reliability, and, most important of all, he must be a key boy in his community and in his school. With these points in mind, every boy should strive to become a member.

Arthur Raybold '48

The Veterans

Again we are proud to welcome the veterans who have returned to the friendly classrooms of Fairhaven High School. Their sincere efforts and pleasant association with our school life have placed them in a position of high esteem among the students and faculty.

The following veterans are enrolled in classes this year:

Francis Correira
Robert Johansen
Carl McDermott
Alfred McQuillan
John Martin
Paul Patnaude
Robert Swift
Frank Thompson
Robert Wyss

The Vocal Ensemble

Our vocal ensemble, under the direction of Mrs. Marguerite Johnson, consists of twenty-five mixed voices of students especially selected for this chorus.

This year, we exchanged programs with Dartmouth High School, and presented, for the first time, a male chorus and two male quartets. A girls' glee club was heard, too. The ensemble also appeared in two assemblies and at Newport Naval Hospital.

By the end of the year, the Vocal Ensemble will have performed for several organizations and taken part in the State Festival at Brockton, and the New England Festival at Hampton Beach, N.H.

The group will sing for the Senior Baccalaureate Services Graduation exercises, and during Music week.

Mary-Jean Mathews '49

The Orchestra

So that the highest quality of musical harmony can be attained, the High School Orchestra has been separated into two divisions; the Senior Orchestra, and the Junior Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Arey, and of Miss Hastings, respectively.

A test in rhythm, tune, and sight-reading must be passed for entrance into Senior Orchestra. We have forty-eight musicians in this group.

The Junior Orchestra, with a membership of fifty-one, is the intermediary step between elementary school orchestra and the Senior group.

Each year the Orchestra plays at assemblies, presents its annual May Festival, assists with graduation exercises, and accompanies the Senior Play. An additional feature of the orchestra is the special ensemble comprised of students who have shown unusual musical ability, and are destined for fine musical careers.

Maureen Mahoney '49

The Band

This is the first year in the school's history that there have been three separate divisions among our band: the Senior Band, the Junior Band, and the Marching Band.

The Senior Band, under the direction of Mr. Clarence W. Arey, consists of forty-one pieces. To qualify for the Senior Band, an applicant must take a test. This group is a concert band and performs often as such.

The Junior Band, under the direction of Mr. Frank Gonsalves, is composed of thirty-six pieces. These include all eighth grade musicians, and those who do not qualify for the Senior Band.

The last division is the Marching Band, which consists of all of the Senior Band, and enough of the Junior Band to make up fifty-two pieces. In the fall and spring, this group is the most active, participating at football games and in parades. Last November our Marching Band took part in a concert at the B. U.—Colgate football game at Fenway Park. This year the Marching and Concert Bands will participate in the State and New England music festivals to be held in May.

The Fairhaven band members, in their new royal blue, whip cord uniforms, compose one of the finest bands in the state-one of which we can be justly proud.

Robert MacLauchlin '49

The Senior Play

This year the play selected for the annual Senior production was somewhat out of the ordinary in more than one respect. The name of the play is "Respectfully Yours," and inasmuch as the entire action occurs in 1912, it was necessary for the cast to wear period costumes.

The problem of acquiring suitable clothing was quickly solved by the cast, our faculty, the students, and everyone's relatives in general. In fact, the entire community was made conscious of the need for grandma's "Sunday-go-to-meeting" dress, dad's old button shoes, and grandpa's coat with the tails. For a few weeks, it seemed that anyone who wore a blouse with a high collar, or a "new look" length skirt was subject to an immediate disrobing in the Emergency Room, at which time a member of the cast would try it on, consider alterations, then hand the garment back to its owner saying, "Please bring this to school tomorrow;

I'm sure it's just what I need for the third act." So went our search for appropriate dress.

By the time that the week before the play had arrived, everyone had managed to obtain the necessary garments. (Alex (Nat Reed), the little boy of our play, was breaking in his high button shoes, and all the other males in the cast were modeling their antique finery while wondering how it had been possible to be comfortable in high collars. The girls had equal success in their hunt for 1912 garb.

We had but one awkward moment with our costumes. This occurred at a rehearsal when our leading lady, Lydia Greenleaf (Eileen Hennessy), was declaiming a dramatic speech to her husband, Carl (Dick Brooks). Eileen backed up with a rather high step, and, as at the time she was wearing one of the long skirts, her foot became entangled in the folds of it. There was a terrific thud which caused everyone to run to the scene of the accident. There, upon the stage, we found Eileen sprawled on the floor in the midst of her "new look" skirt. We were all a little more mindful of the manner in which we floated about in our long skirts from that moment on!

This year we have had a rather strange actress in our production. This actress did not try out, attended only a few rehearsals, and would fall asleep in any chair in which she was placed. I am describing "Malty," the cat, who, with perfect feline composure, did an excellent bit of acting for us.

The play offered us a chance to work on the characterization of some very interesting personages. Lydia Greenleaf (Eileen Hennessy) was the poor, brow-beaten wife of the conservative Harvard professor, Carl (Dick Brooks), who remained stuffy and pompous for more than two acts. Doris (Pat Litz), their maid, was a hilarious character whose curtsy was our pride and joy. Connie Greenleaf (Dottie Stearns) and Alan Walker (Arthur Raybold) represented the forward-looking younger set of 1912. Mrs. McLain (Cora Simpkin) and her husband, Dean McLain (Ray O'Leary), did a fine job of characterizing the domineering wife and the meek husband. The photographer (Ray Covill) worked miracles with his magnesium for camera smoke. Miss Vinson (Pat Moffett) was the crusading Amazon who fought, by way of the press, to give women equality at home and in the government.

William Van Ness (Bob Patterson) was our professor of anthropology who discussed skull formations. Miss Riggs (Eleanor Luther) represented a quiet little seamstress who moused about carrying "Alice," the dressmaker's model. "Alice" has an hourglass figure, and her part was well done without a word of dialogue. Last of all, there was the aforementioned "Malty," the cat, whose job it was to avoid the pedals of the family organ.

It really was great fun to put together our play. There was not a boring moment at our many rehearsals. In short, all those who took part in the production gained profitable experience, and each owes a debt of gratitude to Miss Hoyle, whose fine instruction was exceeded only by her superhuman patience.

The Class Will

We, the Class of 1948, of the Fairhaven High School, County of Bristol, and the State of Massachusetts, being of legal age, sound mind, and memory do make, publish, and declare this our last will and testament, hereby making void any promises made heretofore as the thoughtless wish of an idle hour:

Item 1. Patricia Litz leaves a basketball and a slide rule to Maureen Mahoney in the hope that she may use them as well as Pat has.

Item 2. Hadley Cornell and Eunice Randall leave their hidden corner outside Room 18 and a slip from the office insuring free twenty minute study periods for the school year of 1948-49 to Edna Simmons and Sherman Kinney, who we are sure will use them to the best advantage.

Item 3. Bette Corbett leaves her record of "perfect attendance" to any Junior who plans to spend a week basking in the Florida sun next year.

Item 4. Priscilla Martin leaves four false teeth and a broken arm to any Junior who gets in her way between now and graduation.

Item 5. Eddie Clement leaves his little black book to Lazarus "Greek" Gulecas who we have heard uses the telephone approach — or is it just any approach?

Item 6. Stella Pifko leaves her wonderful Polish recipes to Wanda Chodowski who we hope has an appetite and strong stomach equal to Stella's.

Item 7. Frank Thompson leaves his "Lincoln Continental" (Lincoln did give it to his grandfather, and it has crossed the continent) to Nancy Richards.

Item 8. Anne Stowell leaves a small truck to David Jenney so that he won't crowd the Mattapoisett bus with volumes of History as she did.

Item 9. Barbara Lawton leaves a box of tacks (Atlas you know) to any Junior who would like to see business at "Fairhaven's University" flourish.

Item 10. A certain Senior boy (D. H.) leaves to Sheila Wing a date book, so that she may keep her dates in Chronological order, and therefore need not be embarrassed in the coming year.

Item 11. Ray Covill and Bob Patterson leave their many unprinted negatives to any junior who can't afford a comic book.

Item 12. Ann Perkins leaves several cancelled train tickets to Boston to any Junior interested in Northeastern.

Item 13. Caroline Tavares, Ruth Monteiro, and Dominga Deluz leave records of their mellifluous song stylings to Mr. Lawton in order that his nerves may be calmed when confronted by next year's Senior class.

Item 14. Eddy Downey leaves all his Freshmen girl-friends to any Junior who feels he is able to keep all fourteen of them happy at the same time.

Item 15. Dotty Stearns leaves to the feminine part of the Junior Class a small pamphlet entitled "How to Spend Twenty Minute Study With a Veteran" — It's a great piece of literature, girls!

Item 16. Dick Brooks leaves the traffic squad and a hanky for Mr. Wood to dry his tears with.

Item 17. Pat Moffett leaves her "tidy desk" to any Junior who has a similar filing system or plans to be an excavator.

Item 18. Peter Briggs leaves with everyone's old girl friend.

Item 19. Ann Price leaves her fine French accent to any Junior who would like to get lost in France.

Item 20. Victor Slater leaves his position on the second team to any able bodied Junior who likes to keep his "nose clean."

Item 21. John Harrison and Bob Frates leave five dollars' worth of the old car checks (4 for 25c) to Bob Breen, our Hollywood import, who has interests at New Bedford High.

Item 22. Miss Hoyle's Senior English class wish to leave her all their dactyl-less sonnets in hopes that if published she may retire with the fortune.

Item 23. Natalie Sylvia leaves several moldy cupcakes to Leonard Hathaway hoping that he will enjoy them as much as he does the four hot plates and eight desserts he consumes in the lunch room daily.

Item 24. Eleanor Luther leaves a path to B. M. C. Durfee — need we say more?

Item 25. Bob Mathieson leaves his broad shoulders to the Junior girls to cry on at his departure.

Item 26. Vic Brunette and Ernie Portway leave "Le Professeur Maurice Demanche" to Miss Boucher to lecture during any dull French period next year.

Item 27. Buster Evans leaves the keys to his club to Arsene Duval in case Arsene ever has any desire for a little "excitement!"

Item 28. Arthur Raybold leaves to the President of next year's Senior Class eight cartons of unsold tickets and a few movie films — Money will be scarce, you know!

Item 29. To Mr. Clement, Richard Adshead leaves his own version of U. S. History. This book contains many facts not generally seen in the standard history books.

Item 30. John "Chopin" Francis leaves the worn keys on the assembly hall piano to Frances Muldoon so that she may practice her version of Tschaikovsky's Fifth.

Item 31. To Jack's Variety the Senior Class leaves a seven foot bookcase so that future classes won't have to leave their books on the soup shelves over the weekend.

Item 32. Peggy Lacasse and Beverly Richards leave a copy of their own special joke book to Eleanor Tinkham so that she won't become bored when they are gone.

We, Patricia Moffett and Ann Price, have hereunto set our hands to this, the will and testament of the Senior Class of 1948, this fifteenth day of March in the year of our Lord 1948, and of the independence of the United States the 173d.

Class Prophecy

"Happy is the man who findeth wisdom and who getteth understanding." I am a prognostigator who has found wisdom in the stars and who has an understanding of the futures of every member of this court. After considering the signs of the zodiac and the planets, I have found that nine planets cast their lengthening rays far into the future, and I, an experienced astrologist, Schmaltzbaum, have power to see clearly into the lives of every person who is to be graduated in the Class of 1948 at Fairhaven High School.

Exercising this power at the behest of King Artaxerax, I see under the auspices of the Sun, which casts rays of wisdom and high intelligence, a highly successful professor of the Science of Language. This philologist is Professor Patricia Litz, who is instructing in Bluffum University, presided over by John Gage, the ostentatious president. Among the faculty we have Eleanor Luther, instructor of Girl Scouts, and Peggy Lacasse, teacher of painting — the painting of finger nails, a different color for every digit. Every year President Gage imports Stella Pifko — that terpsichorean artist — with her tricky tappers, consisting of the famous dancers, Dolores Medeiros, Pat MacLean, Dorothy Souza, Caroline Tavares, Natalie Sylvia, and Teresa Victorino. In the chemical research lab, we have Dick Sylvia trying to discover something about nothing, while in the physics lab we find Professor Edward Kerin who, with Nat Reed and Bill Soares, drew up plans for the construction of a big cyclation out in California. Joe Kobak, the mentor of Bluffum University's prize basketball team, is reading a newspaper, flashing the headlines, "Victor Slater Breaks Another Marathon Record." In his spare time Joe Kobak leaves his beloved campus to practice his hobby as a cliff-dweller.

Under the star Jupiter, we find many of the talented members of the Class of 1948 flourishing. Television has lured Joe Sylvia whose charming voice daily is wafted on the waves of the Orange and Lemon Network. In the commercial hour during which he advertises Bob Mathieson's patent muscle builder, Joe is assisted by his stooge, the famous soprano, Irene Cabral. In this studio, John Francis and Bob Frates are the talented disc jockies. A new Comedy, "Resentfully Yours," starring that talented young actress, Eileen Hennessy, and Raymond O'Leary, the new actor who is making Broadway wake up, is fast becoming one of the season's hits.

Next, following the auspices of the planet Mercury, we turn to the great city of New York, where we see Dr. Edward Clement cutting people into pieces, ably assisted by trained nurses Cora Simpkin, Phyllis Bryant, and Ann Govoni. In the nearby courthouse we find Robert Patterson valiantly striving to recover Kent Hemingway's lost fortune. Judge Arthur Raybold is reprimanding Attorney Patricia Moffett for unnecessary interruptions. Helen Ann Root, Marjorie Joerger and Anne Stowell have made great names for themselves in editing a magazine, which has a wide circulation because of its famous contributors. Helen Handley writes a column every week on "Fashion Trends." Barbara Lawton writes a column on sports. Ann Perkins contributes material on the theater so that secretaries at Radio City — Dorothy Timm, Elizabeth Corbett, Frances Yorn and Mary Young — may know what is going on in show business. Dominga DeLuz and Mariann Gracia conduct a successful feature, "Hints to Hairdressers," and have won international recognition for their artistic work on their models, Ann Price and Joanne Rogers. The Amarals, Eileen and Lillian, co-operate on concocting recipes for young housekeepers, and their valuable directions are eagerly read by Beverly Gillis, Florence Haslam, Anna Hendricks, and Lucille Dyer.

Eunice Randall is the head of the magazine's office staff and keeps her assistants, Dolores Santos and Elinor Vanderpol, very busy. Frances Fuller contributes "My Day," the magazine's comic strip, which has special appeal to all the feminine readers. Donald Garcia eagerly reads Carol Finnell's articles on "How to Grow Tall." Phyllis Barber and Eileen Santos are kept busy answering readers' questions in their column. For every issue Elena Swett writes articles on the history of English Literature which are highly praised in literary circles. Ruth Porter's articles about dress-making are eagerly scanned by Beverly and Jean Richards, expert dressmaker. Jeannette Renaud, chef at the Waldorf Astoria, is greatly interested in all the magazine's articles on cooking.

Into my vision, under the sway of the Planet Saturn, comes Richard Adshead, the prosperous seller of kiddies' toys, with a capable office force consisting of Norma Rhodes, Eileen Gibbons, and Ruth Monteiro.

Following the dictates of the ruling planet Venus, Paul Downey, Donald Brazil, and George Evans are conducting an advertising school with such competent instructors as Charlie Howard, Allen Haydon, and John Mello.

Into my vision there come the tents and gala life of a large circus with many features among which we find the clowns — Pete Briggs, Bill Bartlett, and Dick Brooks, that mirth-provoking trio. Farther along is the ring in which Bob Demoranville is boldly fighting a bull. All acts suddenly cease when Ringmaster Bill Hagen announces the next feature — a death-defying dive by Dick Cargill.

Under the planet Mars, which gives strength and determination to all whom it influences, we find John Burke, the muscular life saver at the Fairhaven Municipal Swimming Pool, where he has distinguished himself by saving the lives of many celebrities, among them Mary Bowman, designer of the new streamlined bathing suits. Colonel Eddie Downey, the new E. R. A. director, condescended to finish the construction of the pool with the fine assistance of Eugene Galligan as superintendent of the double-quick shifts of labor and Bob Meade as the mathematician. At the grand opening of the pool were gathered many dignitaries, among whom were Selectwoman Ann Pattee, Priscilla Martin, Carol LeClair, and Shirley Norman. The antics of a mad dog created a sensation, but order was shortly restored by the timely intervention of Constable Ernest Portway.

Under the soft rays of the Moon, we sight the buildings of the recently established Mattapoisett Infirmary where Donald Green is recovering from a broken heart which is being healed by the endearing charms of "Dottie" Stearns and Alta Wheatley.

Through the mists surrounding Mars, I view Fairhaven's bustling thoroughfare — Main Street. I see Phil Silveira endeavoring to interest Ruth Pacheco and Christine Morgan in home furnishings. He is rudely interrupted by the entrance of Eleanor Mendes, Eileen Meekin and Betty Kobza, editors of "The Fairhaven Tattler," who request first-hand information concerning Phil's reported engagement to Hollywood's Mae West. But this information had evidently become known, because at this moment Town Crier Donald Lewis is bellowing the sensational news. He announces also the famous lecture to be given that evening at the Town Hall by Frank Thompson.

In the briny atmosphere of Neptune, there are revealed to us Bob Johansen, Hadley Cornell, and Richard Tripp, now sailors in Uncle Sam's navy, swabbing the decks on the same boat which is carrying Alice Bardsley, Angelina Bartlett and Elizabeth Bilsborrow to Paris where, under the protection of Consul Dorothy Furtado, they carry on their profession as expert couturiers.

The planet Uranius reveals to me Ray Covill as a successful insurance executive. He has recently made a new contract with Bob Wyss and Richard Healey, who are operating a manufacturing plant.

Venus crosses my line of vision. The gay life of Hollywood has attracted Shirley Boucher and Lorraine Faria, who with John Harrison, Bob Gingras, and Paul Goulart are starring in many famous productions.

The last of the planets — Pluto — brings to me, Schmaltzbaum, several important people in our government — Governor Victor Brunette, Lieutenant Governor Al Braley, Recorder of Deeds Quen Ying Chin, and Secretaries Lois and Betty Karvonen, while in the Senate I see Manuel Everett and Fred Campbell.

I, the famed astrologist, Schmaltzbaum, who sees all and knows nothing, do prophecize for the Class of 1948 a glorious, adventurous future in which all shall someday meet once again and compare their occupations with those I have given them here. In closing, I wish to say that our class is destined to be a group of forward, striving people who will take their places in the world, and do their job to the best of their ability.
